We learn by a Washington special to the Cincinnati Gazette, good republican authority, that "the United States steamer Dispatch, the one fitted out for last summer's cruise of the naval committee, is to be ordered to New Orleans to take Senator Cameron's party to Vera Cruz." A Forty Pound Trout.

(From the Troy Press)
Mr. Charles Moore received by express yesterday a trout weighing forty pounds and forty inches in length. The trout was caught in Lake Huron by Mr Geo. L. Mosher, formerly of West Troy, now a resident of Bay City, Mich., where he is engaged in the lumber business. A letter accompanying the fish explains how it was captured. Mr. Mosher, as is the fashion there in winter, went out on on there in winter, went out one day this week on a fishing excursion, on the ice. The ice on Lake Huron is over three feet in thickness, and in order to enpure fish, it is necessary to cut holes in the ice. Over these holes the party pitch their tent, and by means of lanterns the fish are attracted thither, for fish are always attracted by a light. Around the edges of the hole sit the party, some with guns and some with spikes and others with hooks. When a fish of the right sort passes the hole it is either shot or speared and then hooked out on the ice. Mr. Moore's fish seems to have been shot, for in cutting up the fish preparatory to cooking it, a rifle bullet was found in its flesh. the ice. Over these holes the party

So, he effered her his hand, his heart, and his fortune of $50,000 per annum, and she became the lovely bride of a nobleman in every sense of the word. I remember how beautiful she looked in her flimy white dress with a silken light sheening through its lacey meshes, and pearls, whose years numbered as many as the beads which formed the necklace. I saw a picture of her, taken from an oil painting, after she had lived as a happy bride and beautiful mother in far-off Germany. She sat in a half-covered arbor, with a half wreath of flowers falling carelessly from her lap to the ground. Her arms and neck are both bare and perfectly free from ornament, yet so exquisitely moulded hat jewels would merely take away from them their beauty. Her beautiful hair is parted—"one moonbeam from the forehead to the crown," and combed smoothly back from her lovely face. She is the idol of her husband, and the admired of all the nobles. DEATH AMONG THE FOUR BABIES.
On Monday evening Jennie, the most promising of the quartet of Hahn babies, on Low street, died of catarrh, and two of the others, Sarah and Mary, are said to be sick. The dead baby was yesterday prepared for burial and laid in the froat room. The three little sisters, who are now three weeks old, lay in the crib in the adjoining room, Sarah and Katie together at the head and Mary, with Jennie's vacant pillow beside her, occupying the other end. Sarah, who was delicate from birth, has not thrived, but Jennie seemed to be growing finely until taken sick. Her funeral will take place to-day. Mrs. Hahn, the mother, is well enough to go about the house. She is a comely faced woman of average stature. Although but thirty years of age, Mrs. Hahn has been the mother of ten children, the first being twins, born when she was a widow when she married Mr. Hahn.

The Third French Republic

The plots of the Legitimists, nor the rumors of a coup d'etat by the Bonapartists, did not deter the National Assembly from perfecting a constitution for the republic. It was voted by a majority of 171, and is now the controlling law of the land. It ends the Septennate, and is called a law "on the organization of the public powers," for the people of France do not indulge in Senator Johnson's fa

By this fundamental law-which can not be changed until November, 1880, except at the instance of the Presidentthe legislative power is vested in a chamber of deputies and a senate. The wars of railroad kings are temporary. They may be settled by concilisation one day and break out in a new quarter in an other. We have seen in this state a succession of wars and new formed alliance.

In succession new formations in the railroad antagonisms and propinquities have appeared. This assures all concerned of the uncertainties of railroad relations. Would not the kings be wiser to seperate themselves from strategies for mere personal aggrandizment through oppressions of communities and they in lating of the true philosophy and laws of trade, and endeavor to advance the public interest as the surest way to benefit their own?

The outward official symbol of sovereignty in that land is a throne, known as the "Dragon Throne;" and it is the installation into this which constitutes the ceremony. The five-clawed dragon is imperial, and may be almost considered as a personification of the emperor or of his power. Whatever belongs to the emperor is called the dragon's; hence the title of the throne. When the vermilion pencil, which is also called the "dragon's pencil," is used upon imperial decrees, they then appear in the Pekin Gazette as "from the throne." One of the most important departments of state in Pekin is that known as the Li-poo or Board of Rites. It has a most voluminous code of laws or rules of ancient date to guide its proceedings. At nome here we have some very curious amalgamations of state offices, but it would puzzle a western to tell why astronomy should be a part of the Lord Chamberlain's functions. When it is explained that the palace at Pekin is to this day in a condition something like what we read a condition something like what we read of Pharach's in E; ypt, or Belshazzar's in Babylon, and has attached to it wizards, soothsayers and magicians, the matter begins to clear up. The board mentioned is in reality an astrological body, whose duty it is to calculate lucky days and fortunate hours or minutes to guide the emperor and his government in their acimacy of a senator, or the executive of a state signing his credentials so as to control the senate when making enquiry as to the election of a member, then the act was void. He (Ferry) did_not, however, give to the act of 1795 any such construction as that placed upon it by the senator from Indiana (Morton). Mr. Ferry then argued that the senate in judging of the election of its members was not bound by any decision of the president, which might be made incidentally by him solely for the purpose of preserving the peace. All the president was doing in Louisiana was to keep the parties from flying at each others throats; and in the mean time the strange assertion being declared against Japan explained that this board could not make up its mind as to the lucky moment for doing so. It seems they have been troubled with less difficulty in finding a felicitous day for the making of the selected child into an emergence.

in the mean time the strange assertion was set up here by the senator from In-diana that the senate or house was bound by this incidental decision. If The ceremonics on the occasion are their character. The proclamation of the event is previously prepared, and at the ceremony it is suspended from the beak of a golden phenix, and under-neath a vase of the same metal is placed for its reception. There is a particular table on which the imperial seal is laid in readiness to be applied to the procla-mation. Musicians and incense bearers are in attendance. When all is prepared the chief of the Board of rites conducts the unperor from his private rooms to a this proposition was true then, even if the senate should find that the person signing the credentials of the applicans was not the lawful governor of Louis was not the lawful governor bedus-iana, and the legislature which elected him was not the legal legislature, yet the senate must accept them both solely be-cause the president has so decided. He (Mr. Ferry) knew it was proposed to argue, before this debate was fluished, that the report of the senate committee which investigated Louisiana matters in 1873, was false in point of fact. It the emperor from his private rooms to a golden carriage, in which he rides with attend its carrying banners insignia, etc. Prominent among these is the im-

1873, was false in point of fact. It was too late now to feet asi'e that report, which was based upon six or seven hundred pages of testimony open to all. A careful examination of that testimony would show that it was against the legality of the Kellogg government, even worse than the report of the committee. That report was against the personal and political wishes of the very gentlemen who signed it. of the very gentlemen who signed it. The senate knew from the great volume the throne hall, the head of the astro nomical body announces that the auspicious moment for ascending the throne of the Tal-Ching. Kwo, or the "Empire of Great Purity," has come. The emperor then ascends and takes his seat, the proper position being to sit facing the south. With incense burning and music soundthe throne of the Tal-Ching-Kwo, or the "Empire of Great Purity." has come. The emperor then ascends and takes his seat, the proper position being to sit facing the south. With incense burning and music sounding, everyone present bows down to the ground and performs the kow-tow, which is the knocking the forehead nine times upon the ground as an act of obeissence. This is followed by the taking of und as an act of obessets of the stollar of the when it is sealed the cereforth by the senator from Indiana only ance. This is ionized by the proclamation from the beak of the phenix, and when it is sealed the ceremony is completed. An emperor has been evolved into visible existence. He is not only the "Son of Heaven," but he is also "Vicegerent of all under heaven." The means of producting such a being seems very simple, yet the senate showed of testimony before the senate showed that Kellogg's authority was all a sham; the senate showed that Kellogg's authority was all a sham; under heaven." The means of producing such a being seems very simple, yet the result is most wonderful. By this process a man—in the present case it is a demi-god—at least he is such to the Chinese.

The proclamation is printed and sent to all parts of the empire, and is received and passed on by the officials with about the same marks of homage which are due to the emperor's own presence. Where ever it is read all go on their knees and the legislature which elected Pinchback was not the legislature of Louisiana, as had been stated by the senator from Connecticut. That senator did not know it himself, and a careful anallization of the testimony, anallization of the testimony, he (Morton) thought he would contradict the statements of the senator from Connecticut. He then gucted from the decision of the case against Boyden, and argued that the supreme court of the United States must recognise the government recognized by the president, and that the power to reverse the recognition of the president was only to be found in the joint action of the two houses of con-West, of Louisiana, said that the sen-West, of Louisiana, said that the senator from Connecticut had claimed that the republican government of Louisiana had no basis but falsehood and forgery. This charge had been made here for months, and he, West, thought it time that it should be met. The fraud and forgery in Louisiana originated with the opposition party, and was carried out by them and not by the republican party. He argued that the republeans were in the majority in Louisiana in 1879, and were in the majority in day; that Kellogg was legally elected governor, and that the claim of Pinchback now before the senate was just; that he was legally the senate was just; that he was legally elected senator, and outside of all part considerations should be admitted to his seat, then the vexed question in read to Louisiana would be settled and peace in that sta would prevail again. The democra had claimed that the colored registrate in Louisiana was greater than the color cd voting population, and that the whit in Louisiana was greater than the colorcd voting population, and that the white registration was ten thousand below the whole voting population according to the census of 1870. This was easily accounted for. In some states near Louisiana where the democrats had obtained controll, the colored men had left,

and had emigrated to Louisiana, since the last census was taken. When the democratio senators argued that the white registration was below the number of white males over twenty-oneyears of age, they seemed to have forgotten ber of white males over twenty-one years of age, they seemed to have forgotten that there were 15,000 unnaturalized for-eigners in the state who was not entitled to vote. He did not mean to say that all the frauds in Louisiana originated with the deniceratic party there. They were originated and perpetuated by a few adventurers, through whom the dense masses in the state had been led to believe they were ourraged. West then quoted at some length from the testimony before the senate committee, to show that Kellorg was legally elected, and also from the report made to the house of representatives by Messrs.

to the house of representatives by Messrs.
G. F. Hoar, Wheeler and Frye, in which they expressed the opinion that Kellogg, received a majority of the votes in 1872.

Dawes, of Massachusetts, said he had a private conversation with these gents,
and he believed it was their opinion that Kellogg had received a majority of the and he believed it was their opinion that Kellogg had received a majority of the votes, but they had not investigated the subject.

Mr. West, resuming his argun Mr. West, resuming his argument said his state had been outraged in keep ing out one of her senators.

Mr. Christiancy, of Michigan, inquire if it was expected that all the damag which had been inflicted upon Louis iana, would be repaired by the adm of Pinchback.

which has been innited upon Louisiana, would be repaired by the admission of Pinchback.

Mr. West, replied that would hardly be possible, but it was a lamentable fact that the bill for the relief of persons in the overflowed districts of the Mississippi failed on account of Louisians not having her two senators. If the other senator from this state had been in his seat, the bill would have been passed. Refuse to admit Pinchback now, and the verdict would go out to the country once more that the hellogg government was a fraud, crime and violence would have full sway in the state again;
the white leagues would muster; and there would be no peace.

REMARKS.—There has been but little animation in monetary affairs since our last report, and in nearly all departments business has been light. Nothing has occurred since our last to change the general feathers of discount market. There is but very little demand for money for speculative purposes. There are a pienty of applications for loans for legalimate purposes, but the amount of money offered is very, moderate. We hear of mo private capital sacking investment. Rates of interest are unchanged and steady.

BUTTAR.—Nothing has occurred since our last to change the general features of the market. The arrivass of real good butter are not large, and the demand for the best grades is about sufficient to absorb the receipts.

PATAPSCO GUANO. PATAPSCO "Grange Mixture."

THIS ARTICLE, AS SHOWN BY THE ANALYSIS OF Professor W. J. LAND. Chemist.

Ammonia, 1.41 per cent. value.

"bosphoric Acid and Soluble and precipitated, 12.90 per cent. value.

Nitto, not dissolved, 2.31 per cent. value.

"otash, sods and magnesia, not determined by him, but there is present in the mixture from 15 per cent. to 30 per cent. of genuine "Kaint," German potash salts infused by the company, value.

Dr. G. A. Liebig's Analysis

Ammonia, 1.26 per cent. value.

Phosphoric Acid, Soluble and Precipitated, 13.90 per cent. value.

Ditto, not dissolved, 1.24 per cent. value.

Potash, soda and magnesia, 15.55 per cent. value. This is not what is termed "Acid Phospha'e," but like the regular "PATAPSCO's "COMPLEX ARTICLE," and differing from it only in the relative quantities of its constituents—it being designed mainly for use in compositing with Cotton Seed. It has less ammonia than "Patapsco," but is fully its equal in every other respect, therefore, when used in that way upon exhausted and other soils deficient in organic matter, it with make a maxmlum crop even on such lands.

For used on soils having present vegetable matter, it can be applied without seed. It is best to bring the fertilizer near the surface, so the young plant may receive benefit and its properties distributed for later wants of the crop.

This article has been on trial in Maryland for several years, where large quanties are now sold. Last year we sold a "Club" in North Carolina, over 100 TONS FOR COTTON, which was used by more than 20 Different Planters with Entire Satisfaction to each. The gentlemen who conducted the correspondence, has since stated that the results have exceeded that of any other fertilzer they had ever used.

The article sent them had less organic matter than our present make, by ONZ-HALF, but in other respects the same. They used about 800 to 400 pounds seed to 200 pounds of mixture, and applied according to the wants of the soil. Geo. W. Grafflin, Esq., Treasurer Patapeco Guano Company:

DEAR Sin—My evidence before the committee was decided in character. Since 1863 I have each year been seiling it and in every sirgle instance but one it has given antifaction. The party referred to I afterwards found had intentionally done it injustice. You can use this as you deem best.

Yours truly,
